Democratic State Ticket.

For Clerk of the Court of Appeals,
THOS. J. HENRY,
OF MORGAN COUNTY.

McLean, the would-be assassin of Queen Victoria, will try the insanity dodge.

Senator Ben Hill's malady has taken another unfavorable turn and he is liable to die at any time. It is generally understood that he cannot live much longer.

The State-credit Democrats of Tennessee are threatening to form an alliance with the Republicans rather than submit to a compromise settlement of the State debt.

In Union county the Democrats have decided to make no nominations but let the county candidates have a free-for-all race. Is there no danger of letting Republicans slip in between the factions and knock the official pessimism?

The series of articles on the Christian Union by Col. R. G. Ingersoll, John D. S. Black and Prof. Geo. P. Fisher, which were published in the North American Review, have been issued in pamphlet form and are being sold at the book stores for 50 cents per volume.

There are some people who have yet to learn that in shaping the policy of a newspaper, with a view to promoting the best interests of a great party, individuals have sometimes to be disregarded and their aspirations made subservient to party success.

A correspondent from Lebanon asks the question in the Louisville Commercial, "How shall we act to insure Democratic defeat in Kentucky?" If you will take the advice of an outsider who would recommend that you devote some plan by which you can add 50,000 votes to your party in the State. Probably the Commercial will undertake to "bell the cat" for you.

Colored jurors have given entire satisfaction in this county, so far as our observation has extended. We have no hesitancy in saying that in enforcing the law negroes make better jurors than the average white man. Their prejudices are too strong to give a white man a fair trial, but where negroes are to be tried we recommend intelligent colored men for jurors.

It is announced that Gov. Blackburn has determined to resign. No one has yet been named to succeed him. He has been sentenced to hang April 14. He thinks that sufficient doubt has been thrown over their guilt to justify such a course in order that their cases may be fully investigated. This conflicting confession and retractions of Ellis have convinced many people that he is guilty whether the others are or not. The Governor's course for once meets our endorsement. If the men are innocent they should be given time to establish their innocence.

Roscoe Conkling, who was tendered the vacant position on the Supreme Bench, declined the honor after his nomination had been confirmed by the Senate. It is not improbable that Mrs. Conkling's letter had something to do with the matter. At any rate his declination is heartily applauded by many people who regard Conkling as unworthy to be Governor. Conkling's refusal to be shelled on the Supreme Bench is significant. It means that he is still in the ring and will hit his enemies a few more blows before he gratifies the spleen and hate that are smoldering in the embers of his passions. Half-breeds, beware.

Hon. John Feland and Hon. Jas. Broadbent, of this county, have been interviewed by the Louisville Commercial's correspondent at Frankfort, on the subject of the Appellate Clerkship race. They both are of the opinion that the Republicans should make no nomination, but quietly vote for Jacob. Mr. Feland thinks there is no doubt that Jacob can be elected and the Bourbon Democracy smashed into overhauling smithereens. It seems that all of the Republican leaders are falling into line at the crack of the Commercial's whip. It is not our funeral and we will not interfere, though we will try to be on hand at the obsequies in August.

Miss Kate Field has turned her attention to the suppression of transients, since Oscar Wilde has revived the style of knee-breeches. She has this to say in an article on the subject.

"Men without calves when arrayed in the broadcloth of the period are as pleasing as Apollos. But shall all male beauty be sacrificed to the calves? No. Well, let me ask, why do they have undeveloped legs? Do they not indulge in physical degeneracy, neglect of athletic sports, by which the beauty of form is attained? Might not the revival of knee-breeches lead to greater physical culture, and thereby aid in advancing the human race?"

In commenting on her position, the Covington Commonwealth wickedly observes:

Now, most charming Kate, if exposure of the leg is needed to induce cultivation, why not—well, modestly but earnestly—make it common? Why should not your sex aid in "advancing the human race?"

Republican Inconsistency.

The inconsistency of the Republican party has recently been manifested upon two points. In Virginia we have the spectacle presented of an alliance formed between the Republican party and the repudiators to crush out the State credit party. We have but to turn our eyes to Tennessee, an adjoining state, and we see the condition of affairs entirely reversed, and the Republicans seeking a coalition with the state-credit Democrats to defeat the low-tax party. This is one instance, let us cite another. We have seen the Republicans for the last fifteen years doing all in their power to wipe out the racial barriers and bring about an unpleasant equality between two separate and distinct races in the South, who are as widely separated by nature as the north and south poles. The Republicans have been the champions of negro equality, and where they could not elevate the negro, they have sought to degrade the white race in order to bring about social equality in the South. Their reasons for this were that all citizens of the country, of every race and nationality, should be upon an equal footing and no discrimination be made against any in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed to citizens of the Republic. So far, so good, but what position do we find the Republican party occupying upon the Chinese question to-day?

Senator Edmunds stated last week that "Chinese immigration should be prohibited upon the ground that the fundamental prosperity of the Republic consists in the homogeneity of its people and that Chicanos do not assimilate socially or politically with our population. Here we find a leader of the Republican party championing the same principles that his party has been striving to establish against for the last fifteen years. Mr. Edmunds alleges it as his opinion that the immigration of native Africans should also be prohibited by the people of Massachusetts upon the same ground. Where was there ever a party guilty of such inconsistency? Is it possible that the Republicans in Virginia and Tennessee belong to the same "God and morality" party? Can it be that the principles of that party have so entirely changed that we find its leaders advocating what they have been opposing for twenty years? The truth of the business is that the party has become so corrupt, so bent on plunder, that it is ready to combine with anything and anybody for a division of the spoils. Like the chameleon it takes its color from surrounding objects. Here in Kentucky we find the party anxious to coalesce with bolters, deserters, "rag tags and bob-tails" from any and every party, and the Republican State organ daily sings the praises of men whom it has heretofore denounced as unworthy of confidence. "Consistency thou art a jewel" with which Republicanism is not adorned.

Death of Senator Wilkinson.

Judge Jas. H. Wilkinson, State Senator from the county of Trigg, died at Frankfort at 1 o'clock A. M. March 7th.

Judge Wilkinson was born in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, in 1813, and was consequently in the 69th year of his age. He had lived in Calif. for many years and was for sixteen years County Judge of Trigg county. He was elected to the Senate in 1879 and during the last session was one of the most useful and efficient members of that body. He was both lawyer and editor having been editor of the Trigg County Democrat for several years. He leaves a wife and several grown children. He was not well when he returned to Frankfort from the special term of the Trigg Circuit Court about the 4th of February, but he returned to his post of duty. A few days before his demise he was stricken down with pneumonia and it became evident from the first that his disease would prove fatal. He was removed to the Feeble Minded Institute where he could get fresher air, but he sank rapidly and died on Tuesday morning. He was a member of the Methodist church and was an exemplary Christian, a good citizen, a lawyer of wide information, an editor of fearless outspoken principles and a public servant of undoubted integrity. At the time of his death he was Chairman of the Senate Committee on Codes of Practice and filled that position with credit to himself and the State. A committee of Senators and Representatives was appointed to escort his remains to his home in Calif. Senators George and Carpenter and Representative Reeves, Luttrell and Burnett constituted the committee. They arrived here with the corpse Wednesday at noon and immediately proceeded to Cadiz, to represent the body of which he was an honored member at the last sad rite that would close the earthly career of the deceased.

The floods in the river bottom continue to doat out death and destruction to people and property. The government has been called upon to relieve the sufferings of those who have been deprived of all their property and provisions, and have been driven from their homes by the cruel waters. The floods of 1882 will long be remembered as the highest and most destructive of the nineteenth century.

Phil Bell, called the name of the only "man and brother" who has ever at one grand jury in Muhlenburg county. There are no negroes on the jury.

SENSE.

Anna Dickinson announced the Louisville people last week in the character of Hamlet.

John F. Smith is a candidate for office in McLean county. What a fine name he has for bad puns.

When Kentucky sends her eleven members to the next Congress, will the little seven heaven the whole lump?

Mr. H. B. Barker married Miss Fannie Love at Greenville last week. It was a clear case of Love, and "Barker" was within.

The declaration of Conkling caused the country to stand aghast with astonishment. It was the first instance on record where a Republican refused to accept a lat office.

A West Liberty debating society has just decided that money has more influence over men than woman has. Now that this question is at last settled the occupation of debating societies is gone forever.

The young ladies of Madisonville have a "cock-darling" club and the editor of the Henderson Sentinel wants to borrow somebody's boots (if he can shift his socks to them for repairs). N. B. This is not such a case.

We received a proposition from a patent soap man last week to take a $50 advertisement payable in soap. The p. s. m. must have known that this is "campus year," and that we will have to handle the Republican candidates "without gloves."

The Mares are claiming the attention of the public this year. One of them is making an abortive attempt to disrupt the Democratic party in Kentucky and another has just failed in an attempt to kill Queen Victoria.

They were sitting alone in the elegant parlor of the prospective father-in-law. Taking her little hand in his own he gazed lovingly into her eyes and asked, "Dearest, when will you be mine?" She quietly withdrew her hand from his and with her dark lustrous eyes looked into his, as she replied, "Mr. Binkins I will marry you when the Willard Hotel Lottery comes off." Binkins was now sitting up of nights trying to solve the problem, "Was I rejected or not?"

The Governor on His Ear.

Mr. Jos. Ekins, the correspondent of the Louisville Commercial at Frankfort has stirred up a nest of hornets in the executive mansion. He went to the office of the Secretary of State and asked to see the record of fines levied and pardons granted by Gov. Blackburn, but the Secretary, Capt. Blackburn refused to allow him to see the books. The reporter thereupon sent an account of the whole affair to his paper, which created a sensation in the Capital.

The Governor became very angry and called the correspondent to one side and talked to him like a Dutch uncle. The following language is attributed to him; "God d—n you, if you will anything more about me I will break your God d—n back; I will—even if I am Governor of Kentucky, God d—n you!" Secretary Blackburn also told the young man, "if you print anything more you will do it at your own peril." The editor of the Commercial telegraphed Ekins to have the Governor and Secretary bound over to keep the peace.
